

Palo Alto
o n l i n e

January 30, 2008

ONLINE BUSINESS MANAGER?

Palo Alto-based CashView Inc. recently re-named its company and finance management service Bill.com. Additionally, the company announced new features including a simpler interface, improved performance, integration with QuickBooks and a multi-company management tool for accountants and bookkeepers. The company aims to simplify the way companies manage bills, invoices and contracts in a Web-based environment that allows clients to store documents and transactions in one place, offering secure access anywhere, any time. Unlike traditional accounting systems with after-the-fact reporting, Bill.com offers a real-time daily view of anticipated cash flow while simultaneously processing transactions.

FYI is a regular feature announcing news and events related to the Palo Alto business community. Send news to In Business editor Allen Clapp at aclapp@paweekly.com