CPA2Biz, the marketing portal of the American Institute of CPAs, has teamed with Bill.com, a provider of online accounts payable software, in an agreement to provide Bill.com's products and services to accountants.

Terms were not disclosed. The alliance was unveiled at the AICPA Information Technology Conference here.

As part of the joint effort, CPA2Biz becomes the exclusive provider of Bill.com to accountants and their clients, and will launch an Accountant's Program - a free enrollment plan. Accountants who enroll in the Accountant's Program will receive complimentary training, education and online support, as well as use of Bill.com for in-house cash management, online business record

CPA2Biz and Bill.com currently are collaborating to develop an "Accountant Dashboard," an online console allowing users to access the Web-based bill management system for clients with a single log-in. The Dashboard also will have a customizable branding option for firms.

Additionally, each client signed up to manage invoices through Bill.com will receive a 10 percent discount on monthly service fees.
